FINE PLAYING AT SYRACUSE.

Daft's English Eleven vs. United Twenty-two of Central New York.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Sept. 30, 1879. The match between twelve gentlemen of Ireland day on the grounds of the latter club at Ardmore, near Philadelphia. The Irish team went out on the en o'clock train on the Pennsylvania road, and were driven from the depot to the grounds. They had another lovely day, and nothing could be prettier than the appearance of the grounds, with the bright green field, bounded on two sides by a pretty piece of wood whose foliage was partly changed to a russet brown autumnal hue. The grounds were fenced in and adorned with a handsome little club onse and a couple of covered stands. At the opening there was not a large attendance, but before the afternoon had far advanced both stands were filled with ladies and several hundred spectators lined the ropes around the field. The batsmen had an adlitional incentive to exhibit their prowess, as the awarded to the gentlemen making the highest score on each side. The wicket was telerably good, alough on the far side it appeared a little rough.

The Irish went first to the bat and second 138 in their inning. Mr. Trotter was in something like his old form and played a brilliant inning for 57. Mr. Hamilton van up 27 with fine hitting, making a 6 and three 4's. The bowling was rather weak on the part of the Merions, with the exception of Mr. S. Law, who got seven out of the cleven wickets. Mr. J. B. Thayer, the young gentleman who showed such pretty cricket when playing with the United Philaciphia, again distinguished himself with a neatly played inning for 16. The captain of the team Mr. Ashbridge, also made a double figure, scoring 12. The fielding of the Irish was not very good. The second inning of the Merion fifteen concluded at ten minutes to five P. M., and the wickets were drawn for the day.

THE MATCH.

Game was called at twenty minutes past eleven A. M., Messrs, N. Hone and R. Miller going to the bat against the bowling of Joseph M. Fox and S. Law. Miller cut the first for a double to cover point and then made a single to the on. Hone cut the next two bails for 2 and 3 to point, making 8 off the first over. They ran a 4 bye off Law's first and also got a single for a leg byc. N. Hone made three more singles and retired, caught G. Ashbridge off Law, with 8 to his credit. One wicket for 16. G. Hone joined Miller and the latter hit Fox to the off for a single. After a maiden from Law G. Hone retired, leg before wicket off Fox, with a duck's egg. Two wickets for W. Hone, Jr., filled the vacancy and played for a single take off. Miller spooned Law into Morris' hands, but the latter let the ball slip through his single and a double off Fox's pext over. W. Hone was caught by Lowry off Law, retiring with 440 his credit. Three wickets for 26. Trotter joined Miller, and after making a few singles, Trotter drove Fox for 4 and a single, and Miller cut the same bowling for a single to cover point. Miller hit Law for 3 to square leg, a rather lefty spoon, but the leg field could not get there. Lowry was put-on at Fox's end, and Miller played him for a single to leg. After a maiden from Law, Miller retired, bowled Lowry, with 15 to his credit. Four wickets for 46. Casey filled the vacancy and made a single off Lowry to cover point. Casey was lame and Miller came out to run for him. Trotter drove Lowry for a double to the on, and on the next over Casey played Law for a double to square leg. Casey was point and drove the next for a double to the off. Law spooned Exham to the on, but N. Hone let the ball slip and gave Law another life. Law was stumped by Brougham off Hamilton with 6 to his credit. Seven wickets for 53. J. B. Thayer joined Stroud and scored a single to mid-wicket off Hamiltons. Stroud was caught at mid-off by Trotter off Exham with 7 to his credit. Eight wickets for 53. Morris joined Thayer. The latter was batting in good style and played Hamilton for a single to a leg. In the next over Thayer drove Exham for a single and then played Hamilton for a double to leg. Morris drove Exham to the on, but fell down and did not get a run. Thayer again got a double off Hamilton to square leg, bringing the score to 66. Morris was caught over the bowler's head by Coliburat off Exham, with a duck's egg. Nine wickets for 61. J. M. Fox joined Thayer, and the latter drove Exham to the on, giving N. Hone a one hand chance that he failed to take. Thayer played Hamilton for a double to leg, and on the next over Fox hit Exham for a single to square leg. Fox was run out with a single to his score. Ten wicksts for 65. J. Hoffman joned Thayer and drove Exham for 4 over his head. Thayer got another single to leg off Hamilton, and followed shortly afterward with 4 to leg off the same over. Hoffman drove Exham for a single to the on and Thayer drove the same bowling for a single to the off. Nunn came on at Hamilton's end, and J. B. Thayer was thrown out by N. Hone, retiring with 16 prettily gathered together. Eleven wickets for 77. G. Philler got a single to third man off Exham and Hoffman drove the same bowling for a single. Hoffman was bowled by Nunn for a duck's egg. Thirteen wickets for 80. W. C. Lowry ioined Philler and was bowled by Nunn for Exham with a duck's egg. Philler carried his bat for 2. The total score of the Merion direct was single off Exham. Thayer was caught by Nunn off Exham with a duck's egg. Philler carried his bat for 2. The total score of the Merion direct was selected by Nunn of Exham with a du

TWO OF NEW YORK STATE-THE FORMER SCORE 163 RUNS IN THEIR FIRST INNING-FINE EXHIBITION OF SKILL AT THE BAT. [BY TELEGELPH TO THE HERALD.]

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Sept. 30, 1879. day between Datt's All England Eleven and a united twenty-two representing New York State was witpassing the whole day on the grounds. The game was left uncompleted, the Englishmen remaining at the bat from morn till almost night. Their exhibition of skill with the bat was marvellous, and although they faced several expert bowlers they could not be kept still. The fielding of the Americans was very fine, two catches only being missed The Englishmen had secred 163 runs when their side went out. The Americans began their inning and scored 5 runs without losing a wicket, when play was suspended. The game did not begin until nearly twelve o'clock. Emmett, substitute of the Daft team, officiated as umpire for the Englishmen, inf Lowry to cover point. Casey was lame and Miplest came out to ran for him. Totted rove Lowry for a double to the on, and on the noti over Casey played Law for a double to the on, and on the noti over Casey played Law for a double to the on, and on the noti over Casey played Law for a double to the one of the law for the control of and Mr. Flint, of Rochester, for the Americans. Captain Daftfwon the toss and chose to send his was bowied from Millward's end. Daft played Wright beautifully to long leg for a pair. Millward then bowied his fourth successive maiden. Wright's next over was also a maiden, the bowing so far being very effective. Selby drove Millward's first for one, and Daft corked his fourth to square leg over the ropes for a triplet. Daft got one off Wright on a cut, after which Millward bowled a maiden to the captain. Selby cut Wright for a single. Millward's next over was a maiden. Daft's leg hit yielded one off Wright, and Selby punished the same bowler for two to long stop. Daft sent one to the on for a pair, Millward bowling. Selby cut Wright and tailted a single and the Englishmen obtained another on a "no ball." Millward bowled a maiden over, and Roberts went on Wright's end. SI runs having been scored up to this point. Roberts' first over was a maiden, and Millward followed with another. Daft drove it to leg for a single off Roberts' first. Three runs were scored on three byes. Daft put one to mid-wicket for a single off Roberts' first. Three runs were scored on three byes. Daft put one to mid-wicket for a single off Roberts and the sum of the over. Roberts was hit by Selby to long leg for 1, and an overthrow by Carpenter added 2 others. Daft raised 1 to the boundaries at long leg for 3. Millward took the ball and was hit to mid on by Daft for 1. A change in the bowling was now resorted to, Bailey displacing Roberts at the cast wicket. Daft opposed him first, and on the fourth ball a cut yielded 1. Millward bowled a maiden. Selby's leg hit added a single, off Bailey. Selby hit on a full pitch, and sent it to leg from Millward's hands, the theree runs resulting in turning the century point in the seventy-third over. Millward and Bailey now exchanged wickets. Selby hit to leg for 1 off Millward, and Daft duplicated it immediately after. Bailey's leg hit added a single, off Bailey. Selby hat on a full was declared out with 19 runs, obtained in the very highest style of cricket. Four wickets down to 10 Hollmard, and b his first ball. Bailey's over was a wingin. Solby drove one over Favette's head for a single and shrewsbury's cut gave another, a close decision giving the latter safe on the return of the ball. Shrewsbury's leg hit off Bailey was worth 3 runs, and Solby also hit Bailey to leg for 1. A bye was run. Solby tied Oscrott's score on a drive to long off. Fayette took his trial, and Solby stole a run on the first delivery, thus giving him the top score of 35 runs. On Bailey's over he added 3 on a leg hit to the boundaries, and Shrewsbury serored 2 on a swipe to long off. Selby cut Fayette for a single, and Shrewsbury performed a like operation for a pair. Bailey was here relieved at the west weiket by Nowick, the former having been badly pounded. Two runs resulted to Selby off a hit to square leg. A byewas run of Fayette's first ball. In the next over Selby drove one through mid wicket and scored 1. NewYek and Fayette bowled maidens in order. Selby scored 1 on a ground drive to long stop off Newick, and in the next over, got 1 on a cut. Shrewsbury followed with a cut for a single off Fayette. NewArk's next over was a maiden. On Fayette's second ball Selby's stumps were spread, carrying out his bat for 44, after a very brilliant inning. Five weekets, 134 runs. Barnes was sent out as a partner for Shrewsbury, but he, too, fell a victim to the swift bowling of Fayette, the very first hall lifting the balls. These incidents were greeted with houd seclamations of applatuse. Up to this point the defence of the Englishmen had been invulnerable. Six wickets shown for 134 runs. Shrewsbury was jonned by Bates, the colt of the team. Newick bowled a maiden and Fayette followed suit, this being the fourth consecutive maiden, showing a decided improvement in the bowling. Bates raised one to Gartner, who reverse half the safe of the second ball sets skyed one to Gartner, who redeemed his previous muff, and sent the Dallard, who dropped it, 2 runs being earned. This defective fielding caused a disheartening effect. Shrewsbury hit to better than nothing. Shrewsbury not out, carried his bat to the tent with 25 runs to his credit. Total of inning, 163 runs.

CENTIAL NEW YORKERS AT THE BAT.

Very little time was wasted in getting the Central New Yorkers to the bat. Eilinor and McNaughton were sent in as pioneers by the home team, the former taking his place at the west end. The bowler at this wicket was Shaw, considered the best in the profession. At the east end Morley did the bowling. The first run of the inning was scored on a bye run on Shaw's second bail. In Morley's first over Eiliuan slipped it for 3 runs, the performance eliciting great applause, and in Shaw's next he cut it for a single. Morley bowled a maiden over. At this juncture it was agreed to suspend play until to-morrow morning at a quarter to cloven o'cicek. The stumps were then drawn. The following is the score:—

Captain Daft is anxious to arrange a game or two with the Gentlemen of Ireland before his return to England. The Englishmen have several days to spare between Ostober 10 and 24. His proposition is to play one game in Philadelphia and one in New York. He is in correspondence with Captain Hone, of the Irish team.

THE COMING GAMES ON STATEN ISLAND BE-TWEEN DAFT'S ENGLISH ELEVEN AND THE AMERICAN TWENTY-TWO.

Considerable interest is felt in the coming game, on Staten Island between Daft's English crie and an amalgamated twenty-two from New York and vicinity. This is the third English team that has visited this country. The first, of which George Parr was captain, came here in 1859 and played at Hoboken, beginning on the 3d of October, twenty years to a day before the contemplated match with Daft's team. The second was Wilshire's grounds, Bergen Heights, in September, 1862. The coming team, which is regarded as the best in the here on Thursday next. It consists, according to circular issued by their American antagonists, a Richard Datt, captain, one of the best bats in England and a brilliant fielder; Affred Shaw, the best slow round-arm bowier in the world; Frederic Morley, a first class left hand bowler; John Selby, a splendid bat, with the best average in England last season; G. Ulyett, the best all round player in England, a brilliant bat, good bowler and magnificent fielder. E. Lockwood, a first class bat, a good bowler and fielder. George Pinder, one of the best twicket keepers in England and a very stiff batsman. Thomas Emmett, one of the best fast round-arm bowlers in England and a good bat. W. Oscroft, a splendid bat, with great leghitting powers, a good bowler and field. William Barnes, a capital all round player. W. Bates, a fine bat, a good field, and one of the most promising bowlers in England. A. Shrewsbury, a brilliant bat and a first class fielder.

The American twenty-two to oppose this brilliant world, is now playing at Syracuse, and will arrive here on Thursday next. It consists, according to a

The games are set down for the 31, 4th and 5th of October, play to begin each day on the arrival of the noon boat from New York. Every preparation has been made for the event. The grounds, which are situated in an exceedingly picturesque and beautiful ocality, will be made comfortable for visitors in every respect, and it is promised that all which can be done for their comfort and convonience will be done. Nearly all of the American players are young men of education and secual standing, and it is expected that the event will be one of unusual significance both in the character of the playing and in the attendance.

DASEBALL PLAYERS CHALLENGED.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD:-NEW YORK, Sept. 29, 1879. "American Bali Player," suggesting eighteen or twenty-two ball players against Daft's eleven Eng lish cricketers. It is very evident that "American Ball Player" knows little or nothing about the game tory for the baseballists. It is true those who went to England won most of the matches, but not against first class teams, and the ball players who did the chief part of the bowling and batting in England were George and Harry Wright, who were well schooled as cricketers (long before they played baseball) as professionals for the St. George's Cricket Club, of this city.

If "A. B. P." thinks he can find twenty-two players in the United States to beat Datt's team, who arrive here this week, let him try it on. I have no doubt Datt will be glad to play them for all they are worth.

It is true ball players can catch a fly ball first rate,

It is true ball players can catch a fly ball first rate, but when it comes to fielding a cricket ball cut to point or hit to long leg near the ground they are nowhere. George and Harry Wright—two old cricketers—are the two best fielders in the United States. A man to be a cricketer must commence to play when young, and no amount of practice in his old age will make him a player. To wind up I will state that I have no doubt Daft's team can beat any twenty-two cricketers in American cricketers to best any twenty-two baseball players, and if "A. B. P." does not think so let him find twenty-two baseball players who can beat the best eleven cricketers. New York can produce, and I will back New York's eleven.

LAST DAY OF THE FALL MEETING-INTEREST ING CONTESTS AND LARGE ATTENDANCE-GLENDALIA, MENDELSSOHN, BUCKNER AND PERU THE WINNERS.

[BY TELEGRAPH TO THE HERALD, 1 LOUISVILLE, Sept. 30, 1879.

This was the last day of the Jockey Club racing neeting, and the events on the card afforded much not and sultry and the track very dusty. A dash of three-quarters of a mile, for all ages, opened the day's sport. The four-year-old chestnut filly Glendalia, the pool favorite, won the dash as she liked. A dash of similar distance, for two-year-olds that nolds' pay colt Mendelssohn captured the purse without difficulty. The third event, one mile for three-year-olds, fell to H. W. Farris' chestnut colt Buckner, and D. Swigert's bay filly Peru was the winner of the selling purse of $250, one mile and a

COURTNEY AND HANLAN.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Sept. 30, 1879. ney race will positively occur on October 16 on Chau-tauqua Lake. Hanlan has taken quarters at Bemus reinra to Mayville. He took a spin of fourteen miles this afternoon, which was witnessed by crowds on excursion steamers and the shore. He will com-mence training on Thursday. The excursion steam-ers then proceeded to Mayville, where Courtacy gave an exhibition. The weather was fine and both men were in good spirits.

MATCH RACE ON THE HARLEM.

The respective merits of James Pilkington, of the Seawanhaka Boat Club, of Brooklyn, and George Gaisel, of the Gramercy, in handling the oar led to two-mile shell race between them on last vanquished. Not satisfied with the result of that event, a second match for a distance of one mile and a half was arranged for yesterday. The contest was for a $50 gold medal to be paid for by the loser. Pilkington is an officer of the Broadway aquad, and stands over six feet in his stockings. He is twenty-nina years old, and weighs about one hundred and sixty-seven pounds. The course was straight away from off Gates' lumber dock to a stakeboat beyond the bridge. It was nearly five o'clock when the Tiger Lily left her pier with a number of spectators. The racers were not long in gotting ready for the start. At the word "Go!" Pilkington was off like a flash, and before he had gone 500 yards the race was his own. Gaisel was evidently astonished at the sudden gap before him, and rowed like a wild man. He kept steadily in the rear, and marked a serpentine line along the water. Both men pulled about thirty-seven strokes per minute for the first half mile, but before they had gone half the entire distance Pilkington reduced his pace to entire distance Pilkington reduced his pace to thirty-two, while Gatsel went up to nearly forty. The red flag at the finish was dropped in ten minutes and fifteen seconds, as Pilkington crossed the line. Gaisel was at the time nearly four bost-lengths away from it
